I do not support laws to further regulate and create more stringent criteria on the electoral voting process.

I cannot see the utility in closing off democracy to some of the people of Queensland.

The logical reform to prevent electoral fraud, would be to move to an electronic roll where voters are 'checked off' universally.

I accept that electronic systems are not immune from breakdown or exploitation however I am not prepared accept that denying certain sections of the population the opportunity to vote is the way forward as a state.
