I am writing to express my concern about the proposal by the Qld Attorney General to introduce laws to increase the id requirement for Qld voters. I am particularly concerned that this will disenfranchise people who will have difficulty meeting the new requirements- especially those living in remote areas , disabled and homeless people and those who move house frequently. It will also result in much longer lines at the ballot box? Government should be providing all the assistance they can to ensure that all those people eligible to vote are able to do so. Can you please ensure this new laws do not impede any bodies ability to exercise their democratic right.
