Stephen Barnes
Legal Affairs and Community Safety Committee
Submission to the electoral reform amendment bill Thursday, 16 January 2014 10:37:35 AM

it begs me to wonder at the stupidity of this government it is the right of every Australian to participate in every election, with as it is now go in get marked of the electoral role and cast your vote, we also vote NO to the Australia Card, what is the problem with the one we have now nothing, but if you wish to change this process then every one has to be able to vote regardless whether they have the changes made some old people are so not with technology making it harder will only make them more frustrating for them and will stay away i'm sure the Dictator would like this as it gives him an advantage he has more front than Meyer shopping, leave it alone and let someone else that knows how to handle politics and do things legally that DO NOT infringe on individuals and peoples rights I VOTE NO CHANGE I AM SO LOOKING FORWARD TO THE NEXT ELECTION TO VOTE THESE OUT THEY ARE A DISGRACE TO OUR WAY OF LIFE at the last elections people were waiting in the hot sun to vote the liberals in we cant even provide protection from the elements and long waiting lines let alone being able to make voting supposable not corruptible it would only be this nut to think of something like this take people s focus away from the real important issues.

Stephen Barnes