Dear sir please could you let me know your opinion of the forthcoming legislation for the IR bill Fairwork and harmonisation no 2 2013. Where is the fairness in taking away the right to legitimate dissent and shutting down an alternate viewpoint?

I work for Qld health and our current pay negotiations are now on hold whilst this legislation takes place. This is again creating an air of uncertainty in the workforce over job security and our working rights as part of our EB agreement.

Both my husband and I work for Qld health and if we loose our jobs or take a pay cut I don't know how we will pay our mortgage or even live from day to day. This is creating stress for us and a job which I enjoy is now becoming less enjoyable every day.

How can the attorney General say everyone is entitled to their opinion but in the same time be putting forward this bill to stop this?

Thank you Estelle butcher
