With reference to your advertisement in the Cairns
'Sun' Wednesday 25/01/2012 - 'Changes to Law - Stating you wish to hear the public's view on proposed changes to identification laws.

If people come to Australia to live then they should definitely abide by Australian laws, as Australians are expected to do, and one law is - easy identification of one's facial features. How can anyone be identified when their whole head - except for the eyes - is covered.

If Australians go to other countries to live they have to abide by that country's laws and rules, so why should Australia be any more lenient.

The law change is long overdue.

I apologise for a handwritten letter but do not have a computer.

Yours faithfully
Mrs Ber Lize Page.
