I urge you to pass the bill in its current form so that people can self-ID. I know a number of people living in Queensland for whom new legislations would have a positive impact on their mental well-being and sense of self as trans and non-binary people, To fear being mis-gendered even in death is a cruel thing to live with and the change to legislation is simple, easy and has the potential to improve the outlook of trans and non-binary people without impacting on anyone else. I write from outside your state to support people in your state who long for this change and hope it will improve their lives or the lives of a loved on
