I feel that rules, regulations, requirement for continuation training are just over the top. I am in a sporting club which requires me to complete online training modules to be able to continue as a coach and a boat steerer. Most of these modules are irrelevant to my duties within the club of less than 40 members in a regional area. We only compete in regional competitions and most of these requirements would certainly be suited to state federal and international competition. Not to me, I'm leaving the club in June because of this overregulation. I am also a Meals on wheels volunteer. Luckily I am only rostered one day a month and on call if required. Which isn't often.
