Submitter Comments:

I have been encourage but also recognise that the volunteers including myself are pressured by members of the public when hosting events such as our local show. I'm part of a committee that works tirelessly to put the show together and it is quite noticeable that few people are coming along to join and our existing members are all starting to recognise that they can't carry on in their duties. I believe we really need to support new membership and bring the events back as fun and rewarding as for too long we have struggled. Volunteering needs to have incentive to create more volunteers.
