Submitter Comments:

I volunteer in several NFP Organizations and the issues are that volunteers and members are becoming harder to source. If this trend continues some of these organizations will not survive into the future. Some of my entities are currently being supported by NFP House and this has been very helpful, particularly the Organizational Health checks. This has inspired us to implement a range of improvements. NFP House is a regional organization that provides people on the ground to give one on one advise. This is critical for the support we require, in sustainability, growth and compliance. Unfortunately NFP House's lack of funding limits the services we can access. It is imperative that we maintain the existing level of volunteerism to be in a position to attract new volunteers and members.
