I would love for there to be a bigger uptake in informal volunteering. I am a volunteer with Girl Guides QLD and we find it difficult to get extra volunteers from families as they are all working and have limited capacity. I would love for employers to give everyone 5 days a year to complete volunteering - much like SES volunteers sometimes get with employers. People often stand back and think someone else will pick it up but there is no longer that other person as everyone is working full time and sometimes even have second jobs to get by.
