Regarding the initiative to ban glass in pubs, why once again must we treat everybody like children, instead of dealing with the core problem? If the landlord or manager cannot run a respectable house, revoke their license, then deal with the violent criminals (it is illegal remember) with strict application of the law! You should understand that glass is simply a weapon to these bad people, ban glass and they will simply use something else! Then what do you want to ban next, there won't be much left soon for the decent majority! You can't fix bad people by banning everything the rest of us use or do, deal with the bad people directly!
