ONLINE SUBMISSION - Inquiry into alcohol-related violence

Name: Kerryn Sues

Best practice harm minimisation measures:

What doesn't work is drawing focus away from the problem. The problem is violence. Police should have the right to issue on-the-spot fines to people behaving violently in public. Repeat offenders should be handled by the justice system.

Flow-on issues for emergency service workers, police, and frontline health workers:

Set up specific "safe" areas where people can go to calm down or receive minor medical attention.
