Considering the amount of time this whole issue has been happening I feel the Government has dropped the ball totally on this issue of regulation and enforcement. Every day I see e-bikes and e scooters with minors exceeding the speed limits, doubling, wheeling, and generally doing the wrong thing. I see law enforcement officers ignoring these vehicles which are there in front of them. Parents must be held accountable, sellers must have a clear mandate to whom they can sell with no room for modification. If these boundaries are violated then it's short term confiscation, If second violation then longer term confiscation and parents fined. Many have been run into and injured by these kids because they are not educated, and just don't know the rules and subsequently don't know what they are doing on the roads and footpaths. Police must enforce the law and take more seriously this issue. Society as a whole feel let down and left wondering why there is so little done to stop this kind of behavior.
