The invention of the electric bike is fantastic and is the future to local transportation. As with all inventions it's not the device that is dangerous, it's the way humans use it. Education of the young inexperienced people using these devices are the primary concern. Either separate the use from motor vehicles via a bike track or a massive campaign into education of those that use the bikes/scooters on road is of paramount concern. I personally have witnessed 3 serious injuries to electric bike/scooter/scare board riders in the last 12 months. Not to mention 100's of dangerous behaviour incidents. This is a great concern.
