Every school afternoon I have to be utmost alert for teenagers riding their ebikes home. I'm all for kids riding, but the problem is they do it haphazardly, with no or barely any attention paid to the drivers/vehicles around them. I'm terrified of accidentally hitting one of them one day, and just wish they didn't zoom so quickly - the speed of these bikes is too high, not to mention the fact that so many kids don't have helmets. It's a tragedy just waiting to happen.
