The use of e-bikes and scooters is getting out of hand. On a regular basis I see these being driven with no regard for the safety of others on the roads, footpath's and park areas. Penalties do not seem to apply to the users of these transport options. I believe registration and insurance is the first step for the users and parents to accept responsibility. Education and an attempt to change culture should follow closely too. The safety of our children and community is far too precious for this situation to be ignored. I do acknowledge that the bike lane infrastructure needs to be improved to support the safe use of these bikes and scooters.
