It concerns me that:.because they're not registered, they are not insured and unidentifiable

.many are children who are on the road, but don't know road rules.many users toyally ignore road rules/common sense - no helmet, speeding, ignoring red lights which not only affects them but also legitimate users of the road who DO know the rules.I believe ALL road users, even bicycles, should be registered and covered by some sort of insurance scheme, as well as having some sort of identifying number plate..in addition, bicycle riders and e-scooters/e-bike riders should be compelled into some sort of road rules test AND driving test, the same as cars, trucks and motorbikes.by identifying riders, they can be held accountable for their actions
