Thank you for the opportunity to voice my dismay at this out of control behaviour of these bikes and scooters on public footpaths roads parks beaches ect. So everyone has there horror stories to tell and it's there for all to see. Particularly the taunting of the police who are made to look with respect stupid and unsupportive to the well being of the general public. But here is the undeniable FACT!!!! not opinion An electric car is a car it has to comply with regulations rules as any other car. So stop calling these things e-bikes they are electric motorbikes. For example would it be ok for my grandchildren from of the farm to be able to ride there pee wee 50s around public places no would be the obvious answer. There's people are going to get upset and carry on and the media will back them but The powers to be need to do the right thing here and take them on the majority of the public need some protection to finish would any one with common sense really think it's safe for you mother to walk on a footpath
