Submitter Comments:

There is a real safety concern when it comes to electric bikes and scooters. The riders I see are young, and dangerous riders, often without appropriate safety wear, performing all sorts of tricks (monos, multiple riders racing each other) and not following road rules at all. They need to have licences, and harsh penalties associated if they don't have a licence and even harder penalties for behaving recklessly on the road, as we as licence and law abiding drivers will be the ones prosecuted and sent to jail when he hit and kills one of them. It will happen, it's only a matter of time.
