The big issue I see is young kids, as young 11&12 are getting around on e-scooters & e-bikes have no understanding of the road rules, which makes it very dangerous for them to be riding these devices on roads pathways etc. So, I would like to make a recommendation, that people who own e-scooters & e-bikes should hold a licence, eg. Drivers licence (including L's P's etc), bike licence etc. That way at least they will have an understanding of the road rules, and be more respectful of people in motor vehicles. It will also make it easier for the police to deal with people riding them dangerously, recklessly and illegally. Due to having all the persons details on their licence. Anyone who isn't able to produce their licence, will have their scooter or bike confiscated and they can present at a police station with their licence.
