I think its a very bad decision to build a stadium in Victoria Park, it breaks many laws and it is not worth destroying beautiful green space which is heritage listed. Being heritage listed itself should be enough reason that building is canned. Dont we care as a community, as Australians, as government to uphold the values of First Nations rights in our country and state? Or is it all just smoke and mirrors and government dont care, they just want money. Thr Olympics should be cancelled altogether as we cant support the amount of people here and our roads are already congested as it is. The park is a beautiful place for families and friends to visit and picnic in why destroy cultivating that? It is not free land open for grabs it is an important park of city planning to provide green spaces for the community. We already have enough stadiums. It would be the worst decision ever to go ahead with the stadium. There would be a refusal for so many people to attend events there , which means loss of money anyway.
