How come Australia is the only one on the Earth closing down all our power stations and changing over to just wind and solar? How come Australia is the only country on the Earth closing down their power stations and importing wind and solar from countries that are in full swing building new coal and nuclear power plants? If Australians against coal and nuclear and think our 1% carbon output will change the outcome of man made climate change, why have we not shut down all coal and uranium mines? Why is Australia importing all its wind and solar farms from countries that are in full swing building more and more coal and nuclear power plants? Australia has had a nuclear reactor running for over sixty years and has signed up to have tin cans (Submarines) cruising our waterways that will be powered by nuclear reactors are those Submarines safer than a nuclear reactor on solid land or will all Australians need to live in a nuclear safe bunker? If we are so much against coal and nuclear and think our 1% carbon will change the outcome of man made climate change, why have we not shut down all coal and uranium mines? Why is Australia importing all out wind and solar farms from countries that are in full swing building more and more coal and nuclear power plants? Australia has had a nuclear reactor running for over sixty years and has signed up to have tin cans (Submarines) cruising our waterways that will be powered by nuclear reactors are they safer than a nuclear reactor on solid land?
