Hi, I wish to record my plea to the Government to allow the Vegetation Management legislation to give agricultural landholders and property owners the right to manage their own land in the way they see fit for the purpose of earning their own living and thus supporting the local area and also bringing in export income to benefit the whole state. There don't seem to be the same restrictions on land clearing for housing or business development as on farming or grazing, and this is unfair and short-sighted. Do you plan only to eat food produced overseas if restrictions are increased as many older farmers will just quit when things get too hard? Thank you for the opportunity to express an opinion. Sincerely, Peter Fuller
