Subject: PLAASZCZUK GOVERNMENT MOVES TO PROTECT OUR ENVIRONMENT

Dear Mr. Kelly,

I had a flyer in our letterbox and was quite surprised that there has to be a Vegetation Management and Other Legislation Bill to protect our environment and something else mysterious.

Since the unhindered development of the Redlands from farming land that supplied fresh food to Brisbane, into tar, overhead power lines, bricks & motor and glass there has been no government of any persuasion that has protected our environment.

Perhaps this fastest growing destruction of our environment has been due to the largest per head of population immigration in the world. And we have brought in an increasing number of people from overpopulated countries where those immigrants would not notice the destruction. They don't know what an airy, open, tree lined city is. Or do they care when they can receive (Christian based) social security unheard of in their underdeveloped countries. Immigration needs to stop today and not reach Wayne Swann's suggested 35 million. So many countries with high standards of living have a far less number for their populations, e.g. Finland.

That our population needs immigrants to support older people is illogical. If we were not increasing then that meant that there were 2 or less children in a family. So this increase has come from the blood sucking whingers who have brought in their parents, uncles,

aunts,

grandparents and any other bludgers who have been let in by the Commonwealth government. They have caused any numerous social problems. (In the future when there is a natural disaster there will be more people we have to provide for.)

Why does Queensland have to deal this the destruction of the environment when these problems are at the Commonwealth level? The Commonwealth has too much power over the states and we should return to pre-war powers when the people of Queensland were better served. (Do you remember the hospital and dental system a Labour government put in place in Queensland?)

One does not have to travel to far in Queensland from Brisbane to see the sickening development that was allowed in, e.g. North Lakes. The development of the housing looks like something out of the 1700's. Small little homes an arm's length from their neighbours are served by the narrowest of streets. There is no room for parking and through traffic. Where are the footpaths with shady trees? Oh! Every now and then there is a small treeless park. One can only assume that someone from an underdeveloped country had authorised the development designs. I don't know how many politicians live there but I suggest a jail be built next to all those sardine developments.

I do not know what specifically Queensland's high – value regrowth vegetation was referring to or why very highly compensated politicians can't deal with that.

If you want the voters-tax payers' suggestions then all politicians take a month salary cut, without the extras. Why should we research and suggest when that is what we are paying you mob to do. Where in private industry does someone take a job then ask how to do it? It appears, that not only the present mob, but past have not known what to do and taken our money that has led to the destruction of our environment.

Climate change - this is not of our making, if it exists. It may be from the continued destruction of the environment which is private industries such as fracking, mining and oil and the by-products. The people are NEVER consulted. Comparatively Australia let alone Queensland, does not cause much pollution. You must be getting confused with our overlords, Communist China and India. Aren't the likes of Mal Turnbull & Al Gore making a motza from Climate change carbon trading.

If you do think there is climate change then there would not be an A5 size piece of paper with so much ink that includes your name in bold letters and your photo. Do you ride a bike or are you chauffeur driven at our expense? Does the Queensland government have a fleet of cars and a plane? Then you are not showing us you even believe in climate change.
