I would like to address the prong collar banning I think this is a silly idea, with no real research going into this ! (Like a lot of laws the government seem to pass these days) Like with everything the government do it does more damage than good ! Just like anything in this world if miss used it can cause damage But putting everyone in the same category is wrong Thousands of dogs are rehabilitate via use of this device all around the world and a small % of these tools are misused and removing this tool will be disastrous for dog professional trainers I ask that you remove the banning of this tool as there is no real research behind the rule your trying to pass Thanks
