I would simply like to state that not reviewing our animal care laws is akin to the USA not reviewing their gun laws. People need to be held more accountable and be subject to much higher penalties to dissuade them from abhorrent actions towards animals. This is not only relevant to domestic animals, but the abominable treatment of factory-farmed animals and also our precious wildlife. In particular, you must ban glue traps. The collateral carnage of non-targeted animals due to these items is totally unacceptable.
