The rights of ALL animals to have access to plentiful shade, shelter, water and food must be legislated. It is absolutely abhorrent that so many animals in this country are not provided with with these basic necessities of life. And Queensland's animal laws are trailing behind many other Australian states. The unattended chaining of all animals must also be outlawed. The practice of chaining animals leads to physical and mental stress and leaves them vulnerable to attack by predators. Any human with a conscience and compassion must understand the need for lawß to ensure that animals are properly treated and to prevent cruelty.
