Glue traps are used by larger government agencies and they are used in personal homes for different reasons. No matter the reason it is an inhumane way to "collect" specimens. Death is long, with starvation, and dehydration for most critters caught. On occasion predators will rob a trap and if those trapped specimens are dead so much the better, if not, then it is a horrible way to go being pulled off the trap. On the other hand can you imagine what might happen if a small child came across such a trap? These traps certainly serve their purpose. However, humane they are not!! They should be outlawed everywhere in the world.
