Before anyone judges I want to make it clear I am not pro or against prong collars. This is NOT about prong collars. This is about a very scary precedent being set. This is about a government passing a law without due process. It is about passing a law without proper investigation and industry consultation. ANY tool can be used in a cruel manner. Are you going to ban a bit in a horse's mouth? Are you going to ban a "rearing bit" in the horse racing industry? This state government has not done what it said it's done. It has not done a proper investigation or industry consultation. This government has lied.
