I am sickened and disappointed beyond words that we allow the sale of items that inflict such needless and indiscriminate suffering on not only the target animals but also our precious and unique native wildlife, many of whom have to be euthanased once they become trapped, if they don't die of starvation, exposure or predation first, some having chewed at themselves to become free of the glue. Native wildlife have enough challenges to deal with without these glue traps and the cruelty involved means they are NOT an acceptable method of pest management. Why do we sell these hideous things when other countries have banned them?! And how can we expect a better society, one that despises and does not tolerate violence against humans, when we continuously turn a blind eye to the extreme suffering of helpless animals? Please ban the sale of them immediately.
