I am a resident of Cairns in Far North Queensland. I would love to see more competition such as ALDI and Costco for Cairns. It would not only cover the Cairns area which has low socio-economic areas in suburbs like Manunda, Mooroolool, Manoora, White Rock, Woree, but would also serve Yarrabah, the Atherton Tablelands, Port Douglas, Cape York and Gulf of Carpentaria. Having an ALDI and a Costco in Cairns would bring competition, employ locals, allow tourists to stock up before heading on their journeys, and allow remote aboriginal communities and rural stations to stock up with bulk for the wet season. I implore the committee to do what they can to push ALDI and Costco to establish themselves in Cairns and Far North Queensland. Mount Isa should also be considered as a location.
