

From: [REDACTED]
To: Tollroads
Date: Wednesday, 11 July 2018 8:45:31 AM

My name is Arty Tabor.

I'd just like to have a bit of a say about the toll roads.

First of all , I thought we were paying tolls because we were being provided with an alternative to using congested local roads , it seems that we are not being provided with that luxury at all, yet we are still paying full price for the use of these "fast flowing easy toll roads"

Secondly, if we must pay to use these roads , then I'm sure it's not asking much for the "private company " providing the access to these "amazingly convenient flowing" roads to provide every convenient pay methods available, eg: PayPal, cash, bpay, direct crect ect ect , not everyone has bank cards and they definitely don't want a back yard company like govia (linkd) having their bank details.

Thirdly, how is it possible for a private company to have access to all our private details that are provided to the government only , meaning registration and license details and also then be able to use the government as a personal debt collector and enforcer? Do I have this service available to my self also? Can the government collect my debts and if not , take the licenses of those who owe the money?