I feel the tolls are too high on Queensland toll roads, particularly the Go-between bridge. The Clem7 and Airport Link are also not particularly good value (time saving) relative to the cost of the tolls.

If these high tolls were going to the government and offsetting taxes in other areas it may not be so bad but they are going to profits for a private company.

Evidence that this company is making too much money from the tolls is that they recently could afford to change their name at what I would assume great expense and advertising. Surely using the money to maintain rather than raise the toll price or even reduce it would have been much better than changing the name (possibly to avoid all the negative press associated with the Govia and Transurban names).

So I request that the inquiry determines how much the company has spent on the name change and ensures this amount is passed on to road users in reduced tolls over the next two years.

Thank you
Paul Marty
