I wanted to send a brief note in my support of motor racing at the Lakeside Park circuit.

I was first taken to the track by my Dad in 1989. Over the next 10 years in contributed to our father son relationship enormously. It also started a huge passion for cars and design that has led my into a career in graphic and web design. Which has proved successful, I currently own my own design agency in New York City. Racing at Lakeside had a direct impact on me becoming a designer. Starting with sketches and photos of the cars and then moving into designing the graphics themselves.

Why should racing return? Well, over the last three years I've specifically planned trips to Australia and Brisbane around being able to see events at Lakeside. This took a lot of effort, there was very little information online about events and took a lot of digging.

With minimal effort events at the circuit could easily be promoted with a direct impact on local tourism and the local economy. I would absolutely love to take my 10 year old nephew there who is developing a passion of his own for motor racing.

Thanks,
Nick Spriggs
