

Youth Justice Reform Select Committee inquiry into youth justice reform in Queensland

Submission No: 64
Submitted by: [REDACTED]
Publication: Making the submission public but withholding your name
Attachments: No attachment

Submitter Comments:

The present laisses-fair approach is overriding established conventions regarding tenants rights to enjoy peace and enjoyment. I do not consent to the leniency towards repeated offenders as it is in conflict with laws regarding in general, keeping the peace as it is clearly evident current methods are contributing to embolding anti social behaviors not mitigating against this nor preserving the peace.

It will take a lot of work and time to bring lasting reform re comolex issues. In the short term a stronger defense of the public good is required.