NOTICE OF MOTION

(Notice given 19 August 2003)

1 MR BEATTIE to move – That the House endorse the draft code of conduct for election candidates which has been circulated in the Chamber, viz—

DRAFT CODE OF CONDUCT FOR ELECTION CANDIDATES

Purpose of the code

The purpose of the Code is:
(a) To maintain public confidence in the electoral process by promoting conditions conducive to the conduct of free and fair elections; and
(b) To provide general guidance to candidates on what is fair and reasonable conduct in elections, thereby ensuring candidates know what is required of them.

The code applies to all candidates for state elections (independents and candidates endorsed by parties).
A "candidate" is any person who is publicly identified as a candidate in a state election, either by the candidate's party, or through the actions of the person in the case of independent candidates. The Code applies to candidates who are so publicly identified before they are formally nominated as a candidate under the Electoral Act 1992.

The Code binds candidates personally, and not their agents. Candidates are expected to make all reasonable efforts to ensure their campaign workers are aware of and observe the standards of conduct set by the Code, and of the public interest in free and fair elections.

How election candidates shall conduct themselves.

Candidates shall conduct themselves and their campaigns so as to maintain and strengthen the public's trust and confidence in the democratic election process, and promote integrity in our electoral system.

Candidates conduct should be fair and reasonable. This requires that a candidate will:

(a) Act honestly in making representations about the candidate's own claims for election, and their intention to represent the electorate.

(b) Refrain from knowingly acting dishonestly in making representations about the claims of other candidates for election.

(c) Avoid making public statements which the candidate knows, or ought to know, are untrue, about an opponent's personal affairs.

(d) Avoid making vexatious complaints to the Crime and Misconduct Commission against an opponent during a campaign.

(e) Avoid conduct which is contrary to state or Commonwealth law including but not limited to:
   • racial and religious vilification offences under the Anti-Discrimination Act 1991;
   • official misconduct under the Crime and Misconduct Commission Act 2001;
   • Criminal Code offences; and
   • Electoral Act 1992 offences.

(f) Avoid conduct which would tend to compromise a free and fair election process.

(g) Avoid conflicts of interest arising from advocating election policies or proposals which would specifically deliver a private pecuniary benefit to the candidate and, if the candidate is not a Member of Parliament who has already lodged a pecuniary interests declaration on the Parliamentary Members' Register of Interests, furnish to the Electoral Commissioner a declaration of the candidate's pecuniary interests.

The Code is voluntary, with the exception of (e) above, but candidates who do not follow it will risk disfavour in the electorate because they have not followed the Code.
