Making of a Law - flow chart

Before the introduction Bill in Parliament	The need for a new law is identified. Cabinet grants Minister authority to prepare a Bill. Cabinet approves the Bill.
Introduction and First Reading	The Minister introduces the Bill in the House and tables Explanatory Notes and Statement of Compatibility. The Minister explains the Bill and nominates a committee to examine the Bill. The Clerk of the Parliament reads the title of the Bill for the first time.
Committee Consideration and Report	The Committee takes up to 6 months to consider the Bill and prepare a report.
Second Reading	The Minister delivers a speech outlining the reasons for the Bill and also responds to the committee report. The Opposition raises issues concerning the Bill. Every Member has the opportunity to speak about the Bill. The Clerk reads the title of the Bill a second time.
Consideration in Detail	The House considers all the sections of the Bill. The Speaker or Deputy Speaker presides from the Table of the House.
Third Reading	The Clerk reads the title for a third and final time. The Bill is passed by a majority vote.
Royal Assent	Three copies of the Bill are presented to the Governor by the Clerk of the Parliament for the Royal Assent. The Bill becomes an Act of Parliament.
	The Act becomes law

Everyone's Parliament www.parliament.qld.gov.au