CRIMES AT SEA BILL

Hon. R. J. WELFORD (Everton—ALP) (Attorney-General and Minister for Justice) (4.50 p.m.), in reply: It is always a pleasure to work with my colleagues on the opposition side to pass legislation promptly and for the good peace, welfare and good government of the people of Queensland. I am sure all members of the backbench will be greatly appreciative of the contribution from the Springborg school of law again today. We look forward to many more positive contributions in a similar vein by the honourable member in the years ahead. There is nothing more that I need to add to what the member has said in response on behalf of the opposition and in addition to what I had mentioned in my second reading speech. I, too, commend the bill to the House.
