No. 615
Asked on 15 June 2004

MR LANGBROEK asked the Minister for State Development and Innovation (MR McGRADY) —

QUESTION:

With reference to the Queensland Investment Development Scheme —

- (1) What is the total value of Government assistance granted via this scheme for 2001-02, 2002-03 and 2003-04?
- (2) What was the name of each corporation/company which has been successful in receiving assistance under this scheme for 2001-02, 2002-03 and 2003-04?
- (3) What was the type of assistance granted under this scheme for each corporation/company for 2001-02, 2002-03 and 2003-04?

ANSWER:

There is no Queensland Investment Development Scheme. However, I am choosing to table this response as though the question was asked in relation to one of the tools used by the Government to support the growth of Queensland industry. The Queensland Industry Development Scheme (QIDS) was established to provide the government with an avenue to work with industry and business to maximise economic growth. To be eligible, firms must be able to match the approved funding on a dollar-for-dollar basis. Grants are paid in arrears when the applicant provides the Department of State Development and Innovation with appropriate expenditure records and progress reports that demonstrate that the objectives of the project are being met.

- (1) The total value of Government assistance granted via this scheme as at 17 June 2004 is as follows-

2001-02	$4,468,589
2002-03	$4,704,523
2003-04	$5,190,364

- (2) The name of each corporation/company which has been successful in receiving assistance under this scheme for 2001-02, 2002-03 and 2003-04 as at 17 June 2004 is provided in Attachment 1.
- (3) The type of assistance granted under this scheme for each corporation /company for 2001-02, 2002-03 and 2003-04 as at 17 June 2004 is also provided in Attachment 1.

When firms are preparing applications for assistance under this scheme, they are required to estimate economic outcomes that will result from the project being supported. These outcomes provide an indication of the economic growth of the firm and also the cumulative economic growth for the State. The best successes are always those that show measurable outcomes. For example, support was provided to Vigil Systems Pty Ltd in 2001-02. The firm has reported that as a result of this assistance, it has attracted new investment of $500,000 compared with their original first year forecast of $80,000.

In 2002-03, support was provided to Transcore Australia Pty Ltd which resulted in that firm achieving new international sales of $1,556,503 compared with their original first year forecast of $500,000.

QIDS also provided support in 2002-03 to Moreton Island Ferries Pty Ltd towards the design of a new fast ferry to improve and sustain its position as a quality provider of passenger, vehicular and freight services to Moreton Island. One of the results of the support was that NQEA in Cairns subsequently won the tender to construct a new $10 million ferry. The ferry commenced service in April of this year. The Government provided support which was leveraged to result in additional economic benefits in far North Queensland and in South East Queensland.

These are just three great outcomes for Queensland based companies and an excellent example of QIDS funding being used successfully to attract investment, increase export markets and drive business growth.
