MR LANGBROEK asked the Minister for Health (MR ROBERTSON)—

QUESTION:

For 2005-06 and 2006-07 will he detail (a) the total amount spent on artwork in Queensland public hospitals broken down by each public hospital (reported separately) and (b) the total amount spent on artwork in Queensland Health buildings (excluding public hospitals) broken down by health district (reported separately)?

ANSWER:

In line with Government's Public Art Policy, Queensland Health's capital projects budgets include a component of funding for Art Built-In. The Art Built-In budget is applied to public spaces in Queensland Health facilities, that is, areas to which the public has general access. The policy specifically excludes areas of specialist operational or utilitarian purposes such as operating theatres, kitchens and laundries, thus reducing any impact on the funds available for clinical spaces or medical equipment.

The intent of the Art Built-In in Queensland Health's capital projects is to integrate art and design into health facilities which will result in an enhanced and less sterile, clinical environment, whilst adding local community and cultural aspects to the facility.

In Queensland Health's Art Built-In projects, each project is designed specifically for the health facility in conjunction with the project team's health professionals and architects, and every endeavour is made to engage local artists in the Art Built-In opportunities which present in the facility.

A large variety of Art Built-In has been very successfully incorporated in Queensland Health facilities since the introduction of the Public Art Policy in 1999. Art Built-In provided includes such artworks as sculpture, artistic photography, glasswork, feature walls in facilities – paintings and timber panelling, inlays in flooring vinyl, furniture – both indoor and outdoor, privacy screening – both indoor and outdoor, and landscape features in courtyard and outdoor areas.
