ANSWER:

The Queensland Police Service (QPS) generally provides statistics based on Police Districts and Regions rather than electorates.

The QPS advises caution in the use of data collected for geographical regions other than the whole of the state, Police Districts and Police Regions, as they are subject to inconsistency.

The Member for Indooroopilly can access the latest crime statistics for the Gold Coast District in the Annual Statistical Review which has been published online at www.police.qld.gov.au.

The Annual Statistical Review is being published for the first time since 2012, when this practice ceased under the former LNP government.
