MR J BLEIJIE ASKED MINISTER FOR EDUCATION AND MINISTER FOR INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS (HON G GRACE)

QUESTION:

With reference to the 2015 recommendations of the Royal Commission into Trade Union Governance and Corruption—

Will the Minister advise on the specific state-related recommendations that have been implemented in Queensland and those recommendations which are still outstanding?

ANSWER:

The Royal Commission made 79 law reform recommendations, the vast majority of which related exclusively to the Commonwealth Government or its agencies. Only five of the 79 recommendations refer to state governments or state laws.

The Queensland Government has considered the specific state-related recommendations and is of the view that the issues they raise are adequately dealt with under current government policies and state legislation and there is no further action required. There are no recommendations outstanding.
