MS W BOURNE ASKED MINISTER FOR POLICE AND EMERGENCY SERVICES (HON D PURDIE)—

QUESTION:

Will the Minister advise (a) the net revenue made by the Protective Services Group for the 2023-24 financial year and (b) where the revenue is reallocated or spent within the Queensland Police Service?

ANSWER:

I am advised by the Queensland Police Service (QPS), that Protective Services Group (PSG) provides a wide range of efficient, effective and ethical security services to government departments across the state of Queensland. PSG operates under a cost-recovery budget model where revenue which is recovered from government departments for security services provided funds all labour and non-labour costs incurred in delivering those services. PSG aims to deliver a net balanced budget each financial year.

I am further advised by the QPS that:

- (a) Net revenue for the 2023-24 financial year was $531,766, which I am informed represents less than 1% (0.67%) of gross revenue recouped to cover all labour and non-labour costs incurred in delivering security services across the state; and
- (b) This net revenue is not reallocated or spent within the QPS, but rather is included as part of the whole of Service operating result reported in the Annual Report.
